Some of the main things you can include in your homeMarion County, Utah Marion County is a county located in the U.S. state of Utah. As of the 2010 census, the population was 111,565. The county seat and largest city is Hurricane. The county was named for Joseph Rodman West, who represented the Utah Territory in the United States Congress in 1847, 1848, 1849, and 1850, and campaigned for the presidency of the United States on the Whig Party ticket in 1852. Marion County comprises the Hurricane, UT Micropolitan Statistical Area. History Native Americans The county name, Marlon County, was granted in 1776 by the Continental Congress in honor of Commander in Chief of the Colonial Army, General George Washington. The name was changed to Marion County in 1848 by a resolution of the Territorial legislature. This was after the first four companies of the U.S. Army marched to the site. Early settlers Captain Obadiah Stewart and his family, who had started from Scipio, New York by way of Rochester and Pittsburg, arrived in the Valley of the Great Salt Lake in the spring of 1848. The family went on up the Jordan River, and down through the present day Bountiful to finally settle at East Mountain. Here, they acquired 240 acres of land. As the families expanded, more land was acquired. The county name is taken from Joseph Rodman West, (1804–1883), who represented the Utah Territory in the United States Congress from 1847 to 1851. Although his political career was ended after the Gold Rush, he became a noted scientist and inventor. By the late 19th century, the Mormon settlement of Bountiful had grown to become the county seat. The town was named after John Whitney, brothers who arrived with Brigham Young in 1847. The two brothers had purchased a lot where he founded Bountiful. The county was also the site of the Logan Road Massacre, in which a group of 200 Mormons under the leadership of Brigham Young were attacked in the val
